

Louise on road to rally support

FROM council receptionist to rally driver, Louise Cook, who will be visiting Medway to drum up sponsorship, has had a busy year. Louise, who lives in Maidstone, is the only female driver in this season's British Rally Championship having left her part-time administrative jobs with the National Health Service and Kent County Council. She is seeking sponsors on the Medway City Estate in Strood after taking part in the two-day International Rally on the Isle of Man.

Louise, 23, who also has a diploma in car design, said: "When I was seven my dad bought me a toy car and I crashed it so many times it seemed a good idea."

She will be asking for £50 sponsorship in return for a spot on her website, a logo on her car and to be entered into a free prize draw to win prime spots on the car.

Louise needs about £25,000 in sponsorship for a whole season.
